Since the 2021 The International One-Health Conference is gathering the prominent experts from institutions, academia, international organizations in health and environmental sectors to bring One-Health topics at the center of the scientific discussion.
In the last edition in Athens in 2024, the conference has received more than 50 scientific contributions , involving at least 270 authors from all over the world. The highest level speakers (from WHO, The Lancet Countdown, ISGlobal, ICLEI, CNR) on the topic have been invited as guest lecturers to provide the forefront insights, innovations and relevant themes into the discussion.

Vision

Health is a key aspect of our modern society that requires a multidisciplinary approach and that needs to bring together professionals, academics and decision makers in order to bridge the gap between current scientific knowledge and policies

Mission

The Conference aims to activate synergic dialogues among disciplinary research fields and action domains among researchers, experts and students.
The One health conceptual framework and the possible contribution from the One Health approach in the urban resilience capacities enhancement will be the core of the congress dialogues.

One-Health 2025 Framework

The rationale behind the 4th International One-Health Conference, grounded in Integral Ecology and Human Ecology, emphasizes the interconnectedness of human, animal, and environmental health. Integral Ecology, a concept from Pope Francis' encyclical "Laudato Si'," advocates for a holistic approach to the environment, recognizing the intricate web of relationships between all forms of life and the ecosystems they inhabit. This perspective aligns with the One Health framework, which seeks to address health issues through a collaborative, multi-sectoral approach, acknowledging that human health is deeply intertwined with the health of animals and the environment.

Facing the multifaced aspects of One-Health dimensions.

Special Issue “Integral Ecology as a light to foster the One-Health approach”

The conference is supported by the Special Issue titled Integral Ecology as a light to foster the One-Health approach, on the Journal One Health Advances

One Health Advances is a peer-reviewed, open access journal committed to publish high-quality research articles, comments, correspondence and reviews describing the advances in public health.

The topics primarily focus on antimicrobial resistance, animal-derived food safety, and animal diseases with a preference for zoonoses. Prof. Jianzhong Shen (China Agricultural University, China) and
Prof. Stefan Schwarz
(Freie Universität Berlin, Germany)
serve as the Editors-in-Chief
